

FATE OF NORRIS BILL IN DOUBT OVER SENATORS

Measure Would Create Hundred Million Dollar Corporation.

COALITION FORMED

Hope of Adjournment Fades as Alliance is Formed.

Washington, July 19.—"Old John Barleycorn," having unexpectedly upset the renewed efforts of senate leaders for a summer adjournment, the senate proceeded today with the consideration of the Norris bill to create a $100,000,000 federal corporation to finance agricultural exports.

A suddenly formed coalition between the senatorial "agricultural block" supporting the Norris bill and Senators opposing the "anti-beer bill" was largely responsible for the legislative situation being turned topsy-turvy.

By voting with the agricultural senators to make the Norris bill the "unfinished business" and thereby sidetracking indefinitely the "anti-beer bill," the "wet" senators dimmed the revived hope for an adjournment. "Dry" senators countered by serving notice that they would not agree to an adjournment until the "anti-beer bill" is acted upon finally.

The "wet" senators decided that even the so-called farmers' legislation was preferable to the "dry" measure, and by helping to give the Norris bill precedence they bolstered up opposition of the agricultural bloc to an adjournment. There is every prospect now of the senate remaining in session during the rest of the summer.

Open opposition to the Norris bill by Secretary Hoover and other administration officials renders its ultimate fate uncertain. President Harding has made it known to senate leaders that he does not approve of the measure which the administration regards as in conflict with its policy of "less government in business."

The Norris bill provides for a federal corporation whose duty it would be:

- 1.—To purchase farm products in this country and sell them abroad.
- 2.—To act as a general agent for any person or organization dealing in farm products in this country.
- 3.—To make advances to such persons or organizations for the purpose of assisting in financing the export of farm products to foreign markets.

ORGANIZE SELLING FARMERS ARE TOLD

New York, July 19.—"Farmers' failures have been the farmers' fault," Joseph Shapario, the young California economist, sent 100 county agents of the farm bureau federation of New York back to their constituents on the farms today with this message ringing in their ears. The solution Shapario said, lies in co-operative distribution, and merchandising.

"Don't blame the middleman, the retailer or the profiteer," Shapario said, speaking at a dinner given the agents by the North American Fruit Exchange. "The fault is yours. Organize your selling. Advertise. Tell the public: 'Apples are coming. Potatoes are coming. Buy now and buy in quantities and you can buy cheaper.'"

The farmer's problem, according to Shapario is to so organize distribution that the retailer can sell with an eye to volume, not margin. When this is done the farmer will get a fair price of his produce and the consumer will get the produce at a fair price.

Every other industry in the world distributes on a co-operative basis, Shapario said. Farming alone, the greatest of all industries, has been distributing on an individual basis.

DECREASE IN EXPORT BUSINESS SHOWN

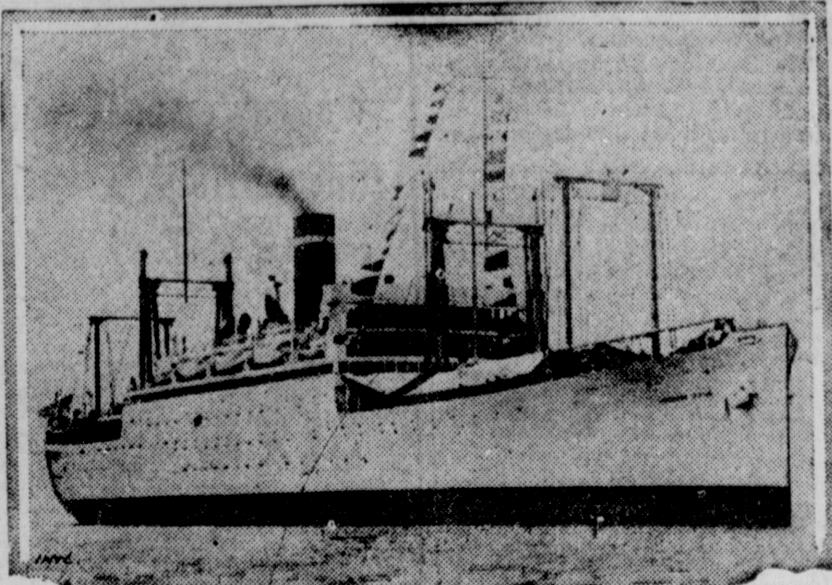

Washington, July 19.—The stagnation in European buying was emphasized today by a statement from the department of commerce showing large decrease in the exportation of most commodities during the fiscal year ending June 30.

The European need for food was indicated by the fact that breadstuffs was one of the few commodities which showed an increase in exports.

ASK DAUGHERTY FOR NEW OPINION

Washington, July 19.—Attorney General Daugherty will be asked to reconsider an opinion by his predecessor, which outlawed wholesale liquor dealers. This became known today after a formal appeal by representatives of the clergy was filed, asking for a review of the opinion as far as it relates to the distribution of sacramental wines.

FLOATING PALACE NAMED AFTER SOLDIERS

The S. S. American Legion, named in honor of our victorious soldiers, which is one of the nine craft of 21,250 tons displacement being built for the United States Shipping Board. Since its launching the American Legion has been allocated for operation to the Munson Line and will be run in the fast passenger service between New York and South American ports. Owing to the particular services to be performed by this vessel, it was necessary to make certain structural changes to meet the requirements for a maximum of air, light and space necessary for comfort in tropical travel. The vessel measures 535 feet all over and has a beam of 72 feet. It is equipped with twin turbines of 12,500 horsepower, which will give it a speed of 17 1/2 knots, and has accommodations for 280 first class passengers and 194 third class passengers, in addition to a crew of 198 officers and men.

Hog Prices Are Steadily Moving Toward The Top

Market Shows Jump of 35 Cents Per Hundredweight
Tuesday—Gain in Last 10 Days is $1.25 and $3.00 in Last Sixty Days.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 19.—Hog prices are steadily moving upward and there was a strong jump of 35 cents per hundred weight here today, most hogs selling at $11.85 for medium weight grades. This is a gain of $1.25 per hundred weight in the last ten days and $3 in the last sixty days. A leading packing house here declares there is a strong demand for hog products of all kinds especially pork and that runs throughout the country are very light.

The hog market has been boosted ten to fifteen cents most every day in the last two months and still higher prices are expected. It was predicted here today that in the next day or so hog prices will reach $12 to $12.50.

Shippers are now holding all their young sows and breeding them. With the present very low price in corn the farmer finds it twice as profitable to turn this corn into prime pork as he would to sell his corn.

In September and October when the big fall hog runs begin a drop in prices is looked for, according to the local packers today. But it is likely high prices will prevail throughout the next few weeks.

CHILD CRITICALLY INJURED IN FALL; MOTHER IS HELD

Police Seek Man Said to Have Been With Mother in Hotel.

Huntington, W. Va., July 19.—Juanita Older, three years old, lies in the Kessler-Hatfield hospital in a critical condition suffering from a fractured skull and concussion of the brain as a result of a fall from a third story window about 7:30 o'clock last night at the Arlington hotel. The child's mother, Mrs. Mary Older, wife of Burpee Older of Charleston is held under police guard at the hospital and Harry Johnson of Guyandotte said to have been in the room at the hotel with her and the baby when the child fell out of the window is being sought by the police.

According to the story told by Mrs. Older to the police last night she had been to Guyandotte for several days on a visit to her parents. She said that she had missed the train for Charleston and was waiting for an early morning train.

It is said the couple registered at the hotel as Mr. and Mrs. Johnson.

JAMES C. BRATTON DIES ON TUESDAY

James C. Bratton, 82, Civil War Veteran, and well known Xenia citizen died at his home on North Galloway street, Tuesday morning, at 8:45 o'clock, daylight saving time, after an illness of several years duration.

Mr. Bratton's condition, which had been serious for several years, was rendered worse about a month ago, when a fall he sustained resulted in torn ligaments in the hip and injury that kept him confined to his bed during the last days of his illness.

Born on a farm north of this city, where he spent most of his life, on November 22, 1838, Mr. Bratton would have been 83 years of age next November. During the Civil War he served three years as a member of Company D, 110th Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and was a member of Lewis Post, G. A. R. He was also an active member of the second United Presbyterian Church, serving as an elder in that church.

Mr. Bratton was married to Miss Mary Kyle, October 22, 1868, and she survives. They made their home on the Bratton farm north of this city, until 1901, when they moved to this city. Surviving besides the widow, is one son, Howard Bratton publisher of The Fairbault (Minn.) News. A daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Schmink, died in Sparta, Ill., in 1902, and another son died in infancy. Two grandchildren also survive.

Mr. Bratton was the last member of a large family. Funeral arrangements have not yet been concluded pending the arrival of Howard Bratton, who has been notified of his father's death.

INSIDE STORY OF BALL PLOT WILL BE TOLD

Burns Turns State's Evidence to Escape Prosecution.

JOHNSON QUESTIONED

New Angle Develops Over
Whether Contracts Were Broken by Act.

Chicago, July 19.—The inside story of the alleged "fixing" of the 1919 world's series was to be revealed today at the trial of the former White Sox ball players and alleged gamblers when Bill Burns, erstwhile White Sox pitcher took the stand. Burns has been granted immunity from prosecution, the state announced and will give full details of the plot.

Attorneys for the state have made it evident that they are counting on the testimony of Burns to "clinch" their case. Burns is alleged to have been one of the chief agents between the gamblers who sought to make a fortune by "buying the series" and the players whose greed for sold, the state alleges, let them to sell out to the plotters.

Another witness whose testimony is expected to be taken is Byron Bancroft Johnson, president of the American League. Johnson is to be questioned regarding technical matters effecting the conduct of the world's series. It is likely that he also will be asked regarding investigation he is said to have made of reports of corruption that followed the playing of the 1919 series.

The defense last yesterday emphasized for the attention of the jury the point that the regular contract season for the White Sox had expired before the world's series was played. The indictment charges a violation of contract but attorneys for the defense brought out that the world's series is played under the orders of the National commission and that technically the players are not under contract.

Attorneys for the state are expected to contend that the reserve clauses of the baseball contracts cover the world's series period and to introduce evidence showing that the players were paid by the White Sox owners for playing in the series. Harry Grabner, secretary of the White Sox, is a witness who is expected to be called in this connection.

TEN CONVICTS ARE MISSING AS ORDER RESTORED IN JAIL

Fire in Western Penitentiary Causes Loss of $750,000

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 19.—Ten convicts were missing at the Western Penitentiary following the riot of over 1,000 prisoners Monday afternoon and the destruction of several prison buildings by fire entailing an estimated loss of $750,000. One prisoner was burned to death. A dozen prisoners were seriously wounded during the three hour blaze and two score more received lesser injuries. The interior of the cell divisions of the prison was badly wrecked.

Two versions of the cause of the trouble are current. One is that women prisoners were denied face powder and that the tobacco supply of the men was limited and cigarettes barred. The other version is that the prisoners objected to soup three times a day. Prison authorities have confirmed neither version.

The ten missing convicts are believed to be hiding in some part of the wrecked building or elsewhere around the institution. Prison authorities are confident these men did not leave the prison enclosure.

An official statement issued by the prison officials says eight of the convicts were shot but this does not take into account a considerable number reported not to be seriously injured.

JAPAN TO PUT NO OBSTACLES IN PEACE PATH

Country Wants Disarmament as Much as U. S.
It is Claimed.

Tokio, July 19.—Japan will put no obstacles in the way of world disarmament, according to Under Foreign Secretary Hanihara.

"Japan wants disarmament as much as America or Great Britain," declared this official today. "The people of the Japanese empire are backing this movement and they have high hopes of accomplishing something definite. Our participation is already assured."

Questioned concerning the Japanese attitude on far east problems, Mr. Hanihara would not talk.

The foreign office official was not so reticent regarding world disarmament. Continuing his remarks upon this subject he said:

"For a long time Viscount Uchida (present foreign secretary) and Viscount Kato have been indicating their willingness for a conference such as President Harding suggested."

There is a current of opinion in official circles that the conference will not take up the Shantung question. At the same time it was declared that even if this issue were brought up it was unlikely that a satisfactory agreement could be reached.

ONE CAR LINE NOW READY TO OPERATE

Dayton, July 19.—The Oakwood Street Railway company's line was the only one of five in the city, affected by the strike, which started thirteen days ago, ready to resume operation. It will send out cars this afternoon it is said. The other lines, Peoples, Dayton, City and D. S. & X. S. reported not enough men to man the cars, but said such were being hired. The strikers have refused to go back. Extra police have been sworn in but no serious trouble is anticipated.

ICE WATER CURE FOR SPOONERS

Atlantic City, July 19.—Spooners on the beach will hereafter receive an "ice water cure" at the hands of the official censors, in an effort to break up moonlight "petting parties."

A dash of water at polar temperature is more effective than any order to "move on," according to the beach police.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS AT STANDSTILL BUT HOPE OF ADJUSTMENT SEEN

DeValera Remains in London Despite Fact That Sir
James Craig, Ulster Premier, Bolts Conference and Returns to Belfast.

NEXT THURSDAY TO BE THE DECISIVE DAY

Irish Leader Can Accept Recognition as Independent Nation Only—Question of Peace or War to Be Decided Thursday.

London, July 19.—While a hitch admittedly has arisen in the Irish peace negotiations, hope was still running high today that a way will yet be found to bring the discordant elements of North and South Ireland together.

For the present at least Sir James Craig, Ulster premier, has retired from the picture, leaving, he said, Eamonn DeValera, "president of the Irish republic" to make what settlement he could with the British government. Craig took his cabinet and went back to Belfast.

It is looked upon as a significant and hopeful sign, however, that DeValera is remaining in London and will confer with Premier Lloyd George again on Thursday.

DeValera himself declined to comment on the situation today. At republican headquarters, the international news service was informed:

"It is impossible for President DeValera to accept anything but recognition as an independent nation."

Meanwhile negotiations were at a standstill today. The general impression prevails that Thursday will be the decisive day, that the question of future peace or war in Ireland hangs on the decisions that will be reached when the British premier and the Irish president again go into conference.

The British press generally is treating the situation with extreme caution, although the Daily News, the Star and the Herald describe it as "critical."

"If Lloyd George supports the views of Sir James Craig," observed the Evening Standard, "then the negotiations die a natural death."

The Morning Post, organ of the Tory conservatives, treated the situation somewhat ironically, saying: "One of our conquerors," referring to DeValera's demand for self-determination for Ireland, "does not request or negotiate—he demands in the name of the Irish nation."

The Post notes the fact that Lloyd George himself described DeValera as the "chieftain of a vast majority of the Irish race and himself the president of the Irish republic."

Good Roads Advocates Fight Fordney Measure

Placing of Asphalt on Dutiable List Calls Forth Storm of Protest by Those Who Claim Highway Improvment Would Cost More.

Washington, July 19.—The tariff fight in the house went into the final round today when good roads advocates took up the cudgels against the Fordney bill.

Under the pending bill asphalt is placed on the dutiable list, while previous tariff bills have carried this commodity on the free list.

It was claimed by those favoring road construction that the duty imposed would add millions to the cost of road building now planned by several states and would defeat the purpose of federal financial aid to highway improvements.

In a general way the ranks of those opposed asphalt duty are made up of those who defeated the tariff duty on petroleum oil. One of the strongest arguments used against this duty was that it would hamper development of motor transportation and the use of tractor farm machinery by increasing the cost of gasoline.

Classing duties on oil and on asphalt as hostile to construction of good roads and further development of motor transportation systems as adjuncts to railroad carriers the rural members of the house lined up in opposition and their attacks today were sharp and vigorous.

Action on the asphalt item will clear the way for the batch of committee amendments to the bill, number more than 200.

Four major items of the bill have been disposed of by open action in the house. These were hides, which were taken from the free list and made dutiable at 15 percent; chemical dyes, on which the three year embargo subject to control of the tariff commission was permitted to stand; oils which were taken from the dutiable lists and put on the free list; and cotton which was taken from the free list and made dutiable at the 15 percent on staple 1-18 inch in length and over.

'HOW'S BUSINESS' SOME SAY GOOD OTHERS SAY FAIR

Difference of Opinion Indicated by Replies Received.

New York, July 19.—Business is good. In an effort to ascertain whether the peak of business depression in retail trade has been passed, the International News Service today asked managers of some of the largest department stores of New York:

"How's business?"

The replies indicate a considerable difference of opinion.

New York's leading retailers differ widely in their views on business conditions.

Among the larger department stores the following were replies:

McCreary's: "Business is bad. We have not only suffered a falling off in the number of our summer customers but a large falling off in the amount of goods sold to each, which is the real test."

Lord and Taylor's: "Business is fine. We are doing 35 per cent more business than we did last summer."

Cimbel's: "Business is not up to last year, but we are fairly well satisfied. Lower prices force us to sell more than before."

Macey's: "Week for week we are well ahead of last summer. There has been noticeable change in our out of town trade."

Rogers Peet and Co.: "Business is about the same as last year. It should be better to put us ahead."

Saks: "Conditions are slightly better this summer than during 1920."

MILLION DOLLAR DAMAGE CAUSED BY BIG OIL FIRE

New York, July 19.—Fire, which swept in flaming billows of oil across New Jersey pasture land and over Staten Island sound, caused more than $1,000,000 damage and threatened the homes and property of thousands before it was finally under control early today. Starting with the explosion of a still in the Warner-Quinlan Asphalt plant at Linden, N. J., the flames, fed by oil from neighboring tanks, spread and raged throughout the night.

Burning oil and asphalt poured into Staten Island sound in a tidal wave four feet high and swept down upon millions of dollars worth of shipping piers and plants along the shore. Part of the fiery wave broke itself upon Prall's island, while firemen from a score of towns fought with huge booms to dam the flaming flood. Fifty shipping board craft at Arlington were in peril.

Navigation for a mile around the danger points was stopped.

Fire tugs of the Standard Oil company were used to fight the flaming oil waves during the night.

Every available man along the flame-licked shores was called into service.

Scores of persons in the fire swept area are ill today from the effects of acrid fumes inhaled during the conflagration.

After sweeping across Meadowland from the asphalt plant at Linden, the flames destroyed twelve stills in the vicinity and more than a dozen of tanks. One of the last of the latter exploded early today, shooting pillars of fire hundreds of feet into the air and hurling a great mass of blazing oil into the sound.

START CAMPAIGN TO RAISE $200,000 FOR CEDARVILLE

An expansion campaign for $200,000 to be conducted under the direction of Rev. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College, was inaugurated the first of last week. The entire $200,000 to be raised during the campaign will be used for endowment and expansion purposes. The present buildings even now stand out among the most inspiring in the community.

The announcement of the campaign comes from Rev. W. R. McChesney, President of the College. The organization work has already started and headquarters have been established in the Barber Building on South Main street.

At the end of the campaign, work will be begun on a large and fully equipped Science Hall, Girls' Dormitory and Gymnasium. These buildings will be equipped throughout with modern apparatus.

In announcing the plans for the expansion of Cedarville College, President McChesney said: "Now that Cedarville College has passed the quarter of a century mark we are more than conscious of the great possibility to provide for our young men and women new educational advantages. The institution must be standardized to meet this provision. In planning to improve the institution we feel that the appeal for funds will not be in vain. The demand for expansion is very pronounced and the program must be carried out with all possible speed. I have received the assurance of support from scores of former students and friends of the College and I am confident that when the appeal for financial assistance is made to the citizens of Greene County, they will be in this instance, as they have in every case in the past, ready to lend their every effort to make this a grand and glorious success. The future welfare of hundreds of boys and girls in this community depends entirely upon the support we receive in this campaign."

Further announcement of the organization plans of the campaign will be made as details are worked out and committees formed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I was in bed with a female trouble and inflammation and had four doctors but none of them did me any good. They all said I would have to have an operation. A druggist's wife told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took 22 bottles, never missing a dose, and at the end of that time I was perfectly well. I have never had occasion to take it again as I have been so well. I have a six room flat and do all my work. My two sisters are taking the Compound upon my recommendation and you may publish my letter. It is the gospel truth and I will write to any one who wants a personal letter."—Mrs. E. H. HAYDOCK, 6824 St. Lawrence Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved Mrs. Haydock from an operation we cannot claim that all operations may be avoided by it, but many women have escaped operations by the timely use of this old fashioned root and herb medicine.

RESIGNATION WAS READY SAYS BARBER; CAME AS SURPRISE

"I told Mayor Switzer, who was the spokesman at the meeting that I did not wish to be a thorn in the administration and would gladly resign if the commissioners thought it would clear the atmosphere," said City Manager W. C. Barber, of Dayton, who was released by the city commission of Dayton Saturday, his tenure of office expiring the end of the month.

"When I was summoned before the commission, I expected a discussion on the street car situation. I was very surprised in my life when intimation was made that my resignation was desired. There is a great field for work in Dayton and I was pleased that I had been chosen to accomplish it. But I find that there is almost universal animosity against any but a Dayton man holding the office of city manager."

Fred O. Eichelberger, newly appointed manager to succeed Mr. Barber, and who has been service director, with 16 years experience in the city engineering department back of him, said Monday, he had outlined no elaborate program of work for the time when he takes office.

"My best efforts, founded on 16 years' experience with city affairs and a knowledge of the city's needs and resources, will go into my administration. I make no extravagant promises, but prefer to let performance speak for themselves."

WILL STATE SPEND $20,000 TO PERMIT HOUGH TO KEEP JOB

Columbus, July 19.—Whether or not the state shall spend approximately $20,000 in order that General Edmund W. Hough, judge of the supreme court may resume his position in the Ohio National Guard, is one of the several questions that is wrapped up in the forthcoming decision of Secretary of State Smith upon the proposition of submitting joint resolution No. 32, providing for an amendment to the constitution to the voters this fall.

The resolution lacking the signatures of the presiding officers of house and senate, now reposes in the files in the office of the secretary of state, and Secretary Smith is now looking up the question as to whether it can be legally submitted.

The resolution provides that state officials may become members of the national guard thus repealing the present constitutional prohibition. It was passed in order that Judge Benson Hough, who was the commanding officer of the Fourth Ohio, one of the units of the famous Rainbow division which saw some of the hottest service in France, might again serve the state as a guard officer although the provisions of the resolution are necessarily general.

Secretary Smith stated today that he had not reached a final decision upon the submission of the resolution and would withhold a final decision until he had carefully studied the authorities.

The law requires that all constitutional changes shall be advertised in every county in the state, and this alone, it is estimated, will cost $20,000. In addition to this cost, separate ballots would have to be printed in every county and separate ballot boxes provided as well as other election supplies.

OPENING PROGRAM OF CHAUTAUQUA PLEASES AUDIENCE

Audiences at the initial performances of the Chautauqua, Monday, attested to the popularity of this form of summer entertainment in Xenia. Good sized crowds of season ticket holders turned out to witness the opening numbers of the Chautauqua and did not go away disappointed.

The Euterpean Artists received evidence of the pleasure of the audience when they appeared both in the afternoon and in the evening. The artists are six girls who are equally versatile with musical instruments and vocal talent.

Portraying the four-act play "In Walked Jimmie," Edwin M. Whitney took the parts of the 14 characters in the offering in a monolog that held the audience until the mythical curtain dropped on the last act. Mr. Whitney's mastery of his subject was evident as he changed from one character to another almost instantly, miming the high treble of the factory girl and the deep bass of the suspicious landlord equally well. The presentation of the play on a whole clever, entertaining and vivid, and the humor and the pathos of the situations were admirably rendered.

Owing to the fact that Mr. Salliel, the lecturer scheduled for Tuesday morning was unable to arrive in time, the morning program was suspended. In the afternoon a concert by the Fisher Operatic Company and a lecture, "The Progressive Ideal" were on the program Tuesday evening. Edward Amherst Ott will deliver his lecture "victory" and the operatic company will again appear. The theme for Wednesday morning will be "New Voices in America's Development" by Mr. Salliel. In the afternoon, Hilton I. Jones will be the lecturer and in the evening, the comedy "Nothing But The Truth" by the Keighley Broadway Players will be offered.

PLANT NOW SAY GARDEN FANCIERS

Amateur gardeners, now is the time to fill up those empty places in your gardens with seed that will in the event of a good growing fall, handsomely repay your efforts now.

This is the word that has been passed out by local garden fanciers, who say that the rain of early Tuesday morning has placed the ground in excellent condition for planting a few late vegetables, and providing the cold weather of fall does not arrive too early a fine chance remains for raising a crop of late vegetables.

Among those suggested for planting at this time are: Cabbages, tomatoes, turnips, beans, beets, radishes, corn and potatoes.

Today's Talk by George Matthew Adams

GREAT MEN

Of this I am satisfied—great men never know in advance that they are to be great. For greatness is an aftermath thing, many times lying dormant until only the years have parted the ashes of the grave and called upon the winds of the ages to proclaim:

Here lies a MAN!

Many of the world's greatest books are posthumous publications. Little did Columbus dream that his name would one day light a world.

The great man does the work of the day—happily, with intense courage, hungrily at times, but with simple application.

Could Dante, Milton or Bunyan have heard the applause and received the royalty which the years have accumulated to their genius, they would have been spoiled for greatness!

The great alone write and work and achieve in undress.

The unpretentious woman who scrubs your office floor—long, into the dying hours of the night—is she not great, as is he who toils above the place she left so clean?

"The great of the earth simply endeavor to do their work, not to be great," says a writer whom I read the other evening.

Nothing can be adequately measured until it is done.

The mind of the producer is too busy at producing to pay attention to what people are going to say about what he does. And so it is that most great men begin to live only after they have died. It was only yesterday or so that they put in the Hall of Fame, created by a great university, the name of Edgar Allen Poe—a man whose only home for the most part was wherever the day might find him.

How foolish most people act before the photographer's camera. And how true that the best picture must be had while the subject is entirely off his guard.

Greatness can never be planned out. It must be worked out.

Great art lies in the ability to conceal art.

And so it is that out of the warm heart of nature herself are born the great men of the world—those who inspire and hearten us through each one of our days—because they had no idea of ever becoming great.

JAPAN, WHILE CONSENTING TO DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE, IS SILENT ON THE PACIFIC QUESTION.

Japan is ready to confer on armaments, but reserves judgment on discussion of Pacific and Far-Eastern questions. Official advice to that effect reached the United States Government. Through the American Embassy in Tokio the Japanese Government announced it would be very happy to take part in the proposed Washington conference on limitation of armaments.

As to the subject which President Harding's "definite inquiries" of July 10 declared to be "closely related"—namely, "all matters bearing upon principles and policies in the Far East"—Japan is silent. She expresses neither willingness or unwillingness to confer on those questions. But the plain emphasis laid upon her readiness to talk about disarmament is, of course, prima facie evidence of her disinclination to have Pacific-Far Eastern issues dragged in.

Notwithstanding the qualified character of Japan's approval of the President's overtures, the State Department announced the way at length is cleared for the holding of the conference. It will be convened in Washington as originally proposed.

China's formal acquiescence arrived almost simultaneously with Japan's reply. The United States thus has heard from all of the five Governments to which the inquiries were addressed. Official invitations for the conference now will be issued, the proposal, in the language of the preliminary overtures, having been "found acceptable."

Confidence is professed that any difficulties seemingly suggested by Japan's answer will be ironed out in due course. On Armistice Day, November 11, 1921, the United States fully expects to take the chair at an assemblage it holds incomparably important to the future peace of mankind. Snags and rocks in plenty are expected in the stream that will have to be traversed. It is concededly an uncharted piece of water. But Skipper Hughes radiates buoyant hope that same steering will land the conference craft safely at destination.

The State Department's optimism is not universally shared in Washington. Many observers think it is more feigned than genuine. Secretary Hughes is described as too sagacious a statesman not to realize the disagreeable situation which Japan's attitude foreshadows. In a nutshell, the Japanese are frankly reluctant to submit their entire national and international destinies to a jury, even a jury of their peers, for consideration and decision. Nothing short of that, the Japanese understand perfectly well, is at stake. They know that it is their strength, their national necessities, their virile ambitions and the fear which these elements combined have aroused in China, in the British dominions and in certain sections of the United States that constitute "the Far-Eastern problem."

It probably is within the truth to say that it is the inclusion of China in the Far-Eastern sentiment of the Washington conference program that mainly has stirred Japan's susceptibilities. Japan and China are official friends but unofficial enemies. To have Japanese "interests" tried by a jury which includes China, is, in Japanese opinion, to seek justice from a prejudiced jury. If Japan eventually decides to face such a tribunal it can be said without danger of contradiction she will do so with the utmost unwillingness.

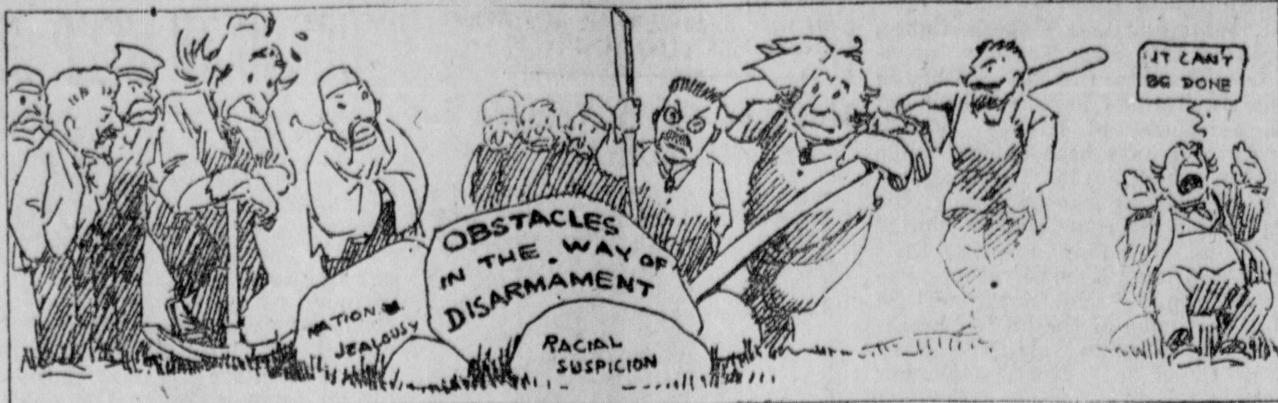

A condition believed to be absolutely precedent to her doing so is assurances, in some form and from some authoritative quarter, that Japan is not being haled before a conference in Washington for the purpose of reducing her to any second-rate status in the Far East. The Japanese have fought themselves to eminence in their part of the globe through three great wars. Their general contribution to the world's progress and their geographical position entitle them, too, they say, to a very special position in the Eastern Hemisphere. Japan certainly is in no mood to be disciplined by an international conference.

It would be far beyond the mark to insinuate that her present-hour attitude is a hectoring or belligerent one. She is believed to be "open to reason." She is regarded too shrewd in a diplomatic sense to court isolation from her sister Great Powers by doing anything calculated to wreck the conference in advance. But the best diagnosticians of the situation feel sure the "reason" to which Japan is open will have to be convincingly advanced before she will subscribe to any arrangement for determination of Far-Eastern "principles and policies" at Washington.

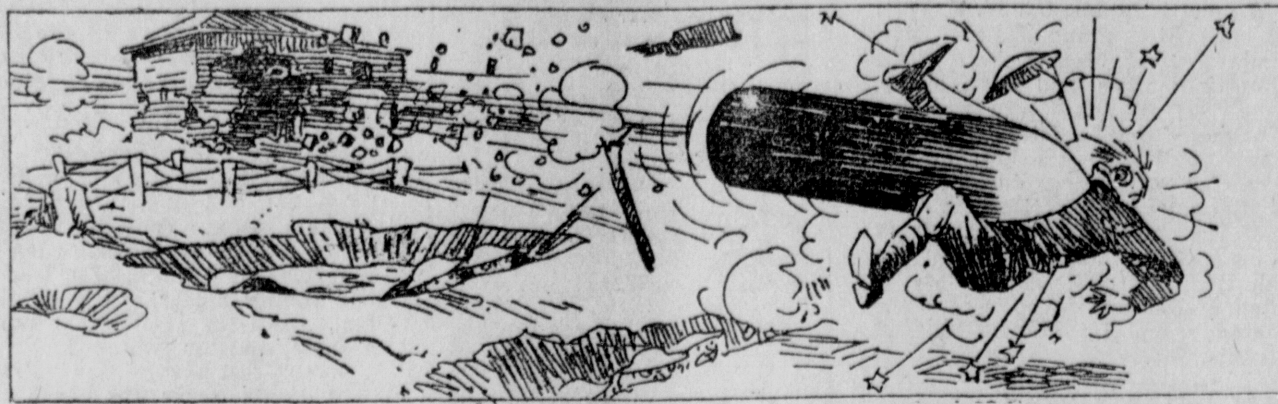

In an article that seems to give the representative view, the Nichi Nichi Shimbun declares that, so long as the powers practice racial discrimination against Japanese in the United States, Canada and Australia, New Zealand and elsewhere, while demanding the enforcement of equal privileges and equal opportunities in the Far East, Japan should consider carefully before joining in such a conference.

If, however, says the newspaper, the powers intend to abolish the existing limitation on the Japanese, establish a world-wide "open door" principle and recognize the equality of the Japanese with other races, the invitation should be accepted.

To buy wisely, go to the world's largest market.

But what centre shall lay claim to that distinction? In what direction shall one travel to reach it? East to New York? Across the Atlantic to Paris or London? The world's largest market is not a geographical center. Mrs. Smith, who lives in Hometown knows that. She knows what is best in style, what prices are reasonable when quality and price are commensurate.

Mr. Smith knows that he, too, can get a better assortment at lower costs by going into the biggest market. In fact, every business man who wants the most for his money goes directly to the source of keenest competition and broadest production—to the advertising columns of his newspaper.

Here every nationally advertised article measures itself against the competition of the whole world. Every advertised article has leased for itself a display room on the greatest, broadest and busiest thoroughfare in the universe on the MAIN STREET OF PUBLICITY.

Every advertised article, therefore is quite prepared to meet the utmost test of price and quality that could be suggested by the broadest and keenest and most wideawake shoppers.

Advertising is the world's auction room. In the pitiless scrutiny of this great public auction room, prices must and do get right down to bed rock.

Competition establishes real values. Therefore, whenever and wherever you buy an advertised article you are getting the most for your money.

When you buy an advertised article you need not rely merely on your own critical or buying ability; the producer must sell to you on exactly the same terms as he is selling to Annette, 6.

the most exacting and experienced of his host of customers.

Just as it pays Mrs. Smith hand some to shop through the medium of the newspaper's advertising columns, so it will pay you hand some to take the trouble to insist on advertised goods.

Economy does not consist in depriving yourself of what you need nor thrift in being so keen for pennies that you miss the dollars, nor wisdom in killing the goose that lays the golden egg.

Get the most for your money. The dollar wisely spent comes back again. The dollar spent for advertised goods is wisely spent—therefore it comes back again. You get the most for your money on the MAIN STREET OF PUBLICITY—the world's largest market!

Rippling Rhymes

OUT OF DATE.
As I pursue my useful courses I often am submerged in tears, for all my friends have had divorces—I've had one wife for thirty years. It makes one feel so out of fashion, backnumberish, behind the date; divorces seem the ruling passion with nearly every modern skate. My wife and I have walked together down the slope of life's long hill, encountered every kind of weather, and every brand of good and ill. And as we thus pursued our journey the marriage lines were never lost, and neither ever hired attorney to see just what divorce would cost. We've thought a marriage contract binding, in every chapter, every verse, and even if results were grinding, it was for better or for worse. The vow we made beneath the steeple is ancient now, but still it serves, for we are old time, simple people, and are not wise to modern curves. I sometimes feel outside the running when friends come up and blithely tell how for divorces they went gunning, and shook off Jane or Kate or Nell. But then I light another stogie, and to Jimena thus I speak, "I'd rather be a mossback foggy than have a new wife every week." And she replies, "You're oft annoying, you try my patience much, my dear, but I would find it rather cloying to be a bride nine times a year."

BEAUTY CHATS

ANSWERED LETTERS

Almond Eyes—Consult your doctor about the puffiness over the eyes. Massage the lower leg, using a strong solution of Epsom salts.

Brown Eyes—Deep breathing will tone up all the muscles of the chest and help the flabby condition of the bust. Dash cold water over the chest each day and employ gentle friction through the use of a coarse towel. If you used camphor in dry ing up the milk, it will take a long time to restore the breasts to their former condition.

E. L. W.—I remember mailing you a reply, as I returned the sample of henna that you had enclosed. Pure henna is the auburn shade and any other color is produced by adding to it; often this addition is a dye. The texture of some hair is strong enough to take a dye without showing any deterioration, but in most cases the hair becomes brittle and breaks, reminding one of parched and dried grass. Henna in itself is a good tonic.

Reader—Consult your doctor about your nose. Your weight is correct. As you seem to belong to a gymnasium you should have your instructor advise you about this running. Your enthusiasm may lead you into overdoing it.

A. E. C.—The juice of the lemon is gently worked into the skin with the finger tips until there is a slight feeling of smarting.

A. B. M.—The only healthful way to reduce is through diet and exercise. You may not know how to do this even if you have a diet list, as the eyes with warm, slightly salted you must be taking more calories water.

than you need. Send an addressed stamped envelope for a chart which will help you diet this correctly.

C. T. C.—Pimples are caused by internal disorders, which must be corrected before they disappear. If you take two or three yeast cakes each day it is likely your skin will be cleared because your digestive system will be improved. Any rice powder is good. Sleeping without a pillow will help you eradicate those lines and it also lessens the tendency toward round shoulders, because it keeps the spine straight. Heated curling irons dry up the natural secretions in the hair follicles.

Miss Discouraged—Yes, there are exercises that will cure many cases of defective eyesight. Near and far-sightedness often mean a wrong focus, which can be cured early if the patient is persistent. Take any object—a rose, for instance—and place it on a line with your vision and as many feet away from you as possible. Arrange it so the heart of the flower faces you and be sure that your vision is in a direct line with this object. Bring your vision into focus, so you will be searching for the tiny green speck, which is encased in the heart of the flower. Hold this vision as long as possible, even 15 minutes, and each time you feel the eyes are straining, close the lids for an instant, but go on holding the vision to the end of the exercise. Begin with the glasses on and later on you will be able to do it without them as you strengthen the muscles of the eye, so you attain to reduce is through diet and exercise. Repeat the exercise several times each day, and bathe the eyes with warm, slightly salted water.

LOSS OF SLEEP

Much loss of sleep manifests itself in a haggard, weary air, and lessened muscular force. Appetite, digestion, energy in general, courage and good nature are diminished. The sufferer loses weight and, in cases of absolute deprivation of sleep the loss may be equal to that due to the deprivation of food. The eyes of the insomniac sufferer lose their clearness, and appear dull, and the whites of the eyes may be reddened. The tongue is coated and the whole organism is deranged.

If we have to manage insomnia properly, we have to know in each case what are the untoward conditions of which the loss of sleep is the manifestation. If we can remove such conditions, natural sleep will in most cases return. All hereditary digestive, autotoxic, circulatory and nervous factors have to be systematically investigated. Nothing must be omitted in the scrutiny. Very often the mode of living has to be corrected before sleep can be restored. The physical state of the sufferer has to be thoroughly improved by baths, proper diet, exercise and the right hygiene.

A warm bath taken quietly at bed time and not followed by any stimulating friction, is effective in many cases. Many other physiologic means of inducing sleep are among the doctor's resources.

Any drug that sufficiently masters the organism to produce sleep is a dangerous remedy. No drug should be used except the doctor's prescription. Many well-known incurable cases have been established by promiscuous drugging to induce sleep.

GOLF TOURNAMENT BEGINS ON LINKS AT WASHINGTON

Washington, July 19.—America's greatest golf championship began on the links of the Columbia country club here today, when one half of the field of 260 experts went away in the testing 18 holes qualifying round. The other players will qualify tomorrow.

Professionals regard this as the most exacting qualifying round ever held in a championship as no player can afford to go badly on more than two holes and hope to be among the 72 players and all tied for the 72nd place who will qualify for the championship proper.

Jack Hutchison, winner of the British open title; Abe Mitchell, the long hitting English professional and Joe Kirkwood, Australian open champion are the favorites but with such a fast field, many considered the affair a lottery with anyone of twenty players a possible winner.

Walter Hagen, Kirkwood and Mitchell were the three most prominent players to participate in today's qualifying round.

OLD TIMER IS BACK.

"My friends had all given up and never expected to see me around again. I had given up hoping myself, as no medicine touched my case. The doctor had tried every thing. My food did not digest and filled me with gas. My brother in Philadelphia wrote me to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. The first dose gave me wonderful relief and I am now as well as I ever was and feel 30 years younger." It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

DINNER STORIES

The Lucille one had been asked his opinion of scarecrows. "No good at all," he grunted. "Leastways, against the crows in this district! Only last year we put up what we thought was a fine scarecrow—a man pointing a gun."

"Why, all the crows in the world seemed to be feeding in that field, and whilst one crow perched on the gun and worked the trigger, another was falling down, pretending to be shot."

"How about the bootleg goods in this town?" asked the stranger. "In what particular?" said the old inhabitant. "Is it potent?"

"Potent" is the word. A gentleman of my acquaintance stepped out of a theater one night during an intermission and purchased a few drinks in a nearby alley. Then he returned to the theater.

"Well, what is so remarkable about that?"

"He didn't know, until the doorkeeper kindly told him, that it was the next night."

Charlie and his three sisters had been to visit a relative in the country. Though their invitation had been for only a week, their stay was lengthened to a month. In fact, the uncle was beginning to fear it was going to be a permanent infiction. But eventually they went.

"Well," asked the father, upon the return of his offspring, "was your uncle glad to see you?"

Charlie's face lit up with delight at the question. "Glad!" he echoed. "Uncle glad! Why, dad, he wanted to know why we didn't bring you, mother, the maid, the cat, the canary and the goldfish!"

"How did you enjoy the Mexican trip?"

"I was disappointed," replied the tourist.

"How so?"

"It was announced that Villa in person would rob our train, but he sent an understudy."

There are many stories told against Irishmen of ripe and full age, but not so many about them when they are young. Still, here is a proof they are Irishmen even before they are breeched:

It was a classroom in a village school in Ireland and the teacher was giving a lesson on salt. "Now," said the teacher at the conclusion of her rather long and inclusive lecture, "I want someone to give me a good definition of salt."

"Shure, teacher," said Micky, a bright, blue-eyed youngster. "It's the stuff which makes potatoes taste nasty when you boil them and don't put any in."

The members of the choir were practicing the well-known anthem, "As the Hart Pants After the Water Brooks."

The wondering of the open stages was apparently not quite to the satisfaction of the gentleman who wielded the baton.

He considered it necessary, therefore, to tender some advice to the tenors, and caused great consternation and a little embarrassment among his little flock by the following announcement:

"Gentlemen, your expression is simply splendid, but the time is very poor—really, your pants are far too long."

WATER SPORTS TO FEATURE PICNIC AT PARK NEXT WEEK

Guy Pillsbury and Arthur Currie, champion tilers of the Miami river at Kil Kare Park will be called upon to defend their title at the annual Community Picnic, being arranged by the Chamber of Commerce to be held Wednesday, July 27, at the Park.

George Shoup and William Davidson, who also have some tilting championship aspirations, have flung the saunter at the feet of the champs, and the latter have picked it up. The match will be staged as the first event of a long series of outdoor events, arranged by the amusement committee for the big picnic.

Last year at the Community Picnic held by the Chamber of Commerce, Guy Pillsbury and Arthur Currie won the tilting title in more than an hour's grueling water warfare with George Shoup and William Davidson. The challenge in this year's match promises the visitors now a strenuous canoe battle and they are even making claims of lifting the title belt.

The outdoor amusements to be staged at this year's picnic gathering, will start shortly after noon with the 50-yard dash for boys under 14. Following in order will be a 50-yard dash for women, a 75-yard dash for men, a shoe race for everybody, a peanut race with everybody eligible, a sack race for women, a sack race for men, a three-legged race for everybody, a potato race, a nail driving contest for women, a chicken chase for men, chicken chase for women, a watermelon eating contest for boys, a canoe race, with everybody eligible, and a tilting contest.

Picnickers will bring their own basket lunches for the picnic supper to be served at the conclusion of the aquatic fight and coffee and ice cream will be furnished free by the committee. During the supper hour, there will be a band concert and dancing will occupy the remainder of the evening, with dancing contests being conducted for prizes.

Those in charge of the picnic are hoping to surpass the results of the affair last year, when a large and congenial crowd voted the picnic a huge success.

Styles BY LENORE

Many brilliant colors gather on a frock of cretonne for the summer girl who wishes to contribute a pleasant spot to the landscape. It is the kind of frock which has been very popular this summer for sports and it may be worn those sportless moments when one wishes merely to be languid and picturesque. At such times one may complete the picture with a wide brimmed hat and a parasol made of the same material. They sell them that way in a smart little shop in New York. Their newest model is out with the long waistline and slightly flared skirt like the one in the sketch. In this frock ecru batiste is pleated for the vest, and light green soutache braid trims the neck, sleeves, patch pockets and waist. Sleeveless jumper dresses, skirt and middie frocks, and separate skirts, intended for sports, are also

Be sure to keep this newspaper clipping of the sketch and description of the garment to use as a working model when the pattern reaches you—which will be within two weeks.

PUBLIC MEETINGS THORN IN FLESH OF OHIO CABINET

Columbus, July 19.—Members of Governor Davis' cabinet are finding it difficult to work out plans for keeping the promise made by the chief executive that meetings of the department heads shall be open to the public. Although it has been announced that starting with the session scheduled for 11 o'clock today all meetings would be open to any person interested, it was said that it was doubtful whether the plan would be put into effect.

The governor himself is not expected to be present at today's session.

SERVING THE SEASON'S VEGETABLES.

"Please tell me how to serve the fresh vegetables from my garden in the most delicious ways," writes a reader of this column. "We grow almost every kind of vegetable in our garden."

Of course the whole world knows that tender, young vegetables served only by themselves without sauces, garnishes or "frills" of any kind, are about as delicious as they can possibly be. Frequently the flavor of a young, and tender vegetable is completely spoiled by being combined with other foods or with strong seasonings. Yet there are many delicious and more or less fancy ways of serving fresh vegetables which are very popular, some of which are the following:

Spinich Hotel Style: Wash and boil the spinich, as usual, in salt water, then drain it and save the water. Chop it and add following sauce: Fry 1-4 pound of thinly-sliced bacon and when done remove it from the frying pan, not removing its hot fat. To this hot fat add 2 tablespoons of grated or finely-chopped onion, then 4 tablespoons of flour and 2 teaspoons of salt. Stir until well mixed, then add 1 cup of the water in which the spinich was boiled, and let all boil for 5 minutes, then add the yolks of 3 hard-boiled eggs rubbed through a sieve and 1 teaspoon of either lemon juice or vinegar. Pour this over the hot chopped spinich at once, and serve.

Young cabbage with Bechamel sauce: Cut the cabbage into quarters, removing the core, and place it in cold water for 30 minutes. Then drain, cover with boiling water, and let boil uncovered for one-half hour—or until tender. Drain and put into a vegetable dish covered with the following sauce: Put into a saucepan 2 tablespoons of butter and when melted add 2 tablespoons of flour, mix until smooth, and add slowly 1 cup of cold sweet milk; let heat again to boiling point, stirring constantly, then add salt, pepper and grated nutmeg to suit taste, and 1 hard-boiled egg the yolk of which has been rubbed through a sieve and the white finely chopped. Turn this over the hot cabbage in the tureen and serve at once.

Tomatoes Supreme: Slice 6 medium-sized onions and shred 2 green peppers cook these gently in 3 tablespoons of butter or drippings until the onions are soft and almost done, then add 1 pint measure of fresh, sliced tomatoes, season with salt and pepper to taste, and let simmer for 20 minutes. Serve very hot.

Baconed Tomatoes: Select large ripe tomatoes and dip them for a moment in boiling water by means of a cheese-cloth bag then take out and plunge into cold water; this will enable you to take off their skins. Place the skinned whole tomatoes on a baking tin each with a thin slice of bacon laid on top of it. Slip into a hot oven and let bake for 20 minutes, then serve at once on buttered toast.

Baconed String Beans: Cook tender young string beans in only just enough water to cover; when tender, serve mixed with the following sauce: Cut two slices of uncooked bacon into tiny squares and place them over the fire in a hot saucepan with 1 small minced onion; let fry until the bacon bits are crisp and the onion a light yellow, then stir in 1 cup of sweet cold milk and when at boiling point add 1 tablespoon of cornstarch which has been mixed to a paste with a little cold milk; stir until thick, season to taste with salt and pepper and serve at once with the beans.

R-E-D W-I-N-G— A Refreshing Dish

Spelling and defining are stepping stones on the way to knowledge. Growing children, full of life and exerting themselves much at play, demand something that will refresh and revive them. Too, they must have that which has a food value. None but pure foods must be given our boys and girls. Fathers and mothers find RED WING Ice Cream just as attractive after a day's labor. So, a walk around to the dealers will answer the family's question. RED WING comes in several forms and many flavors. The makers of it see that it is chemically pure, and that the correct proportions are always there, so that RED WING boasts of a distinctive taste. Children love it and thrive on it. Older people find in it, that which drives away that tired feeling that comes after the day's worry and work are concluded.

THE TEXT—LOVE ONE ANOTHER CHAPTER 96

"Well, dear?" Mrs. Aldrich asked the question when I laid the letter from Keith in her lap. I longed to keep it, but it had been addressed to her and I knew how very punctilious she was in such things.

"I haven't changed my mind, Mrs. Aldrich. There is only one thing he can do to make it so I can or will return to him and that he doesn't love me well enough too."

"And you won't write him to come and talk things over once more?" "No, in this I must go against your advice. I can't see him until he agrees to meet my wishes, or until everything is ended between us forever." I made this last statement with divorce in my mind; the idea that he would divorce me.

"Very well, dear, I was thinking only of you, your happiness when I made the suggestion."

It was like her. She dropped the subject immediately. "When you reply to that letter—if you do answer it. Please make it plain that I am not so petty as he seems to think. The things he mentions mean nothing to me. A place of my own with him is the only stipulation I have made; the only one I make now. Until he assures me I shall have it, I never shall return to him—not if it breaks my heart to lose him. There are things that make a broken heart seem desirable. Things that hurt and cut to the quick—when they come from one you love."

I had spoken very bitterly, Mrs. Aldrich patted my hand and comforted: "I still believe it will all come out right in His own good time, my dear child."

"Shall you answer that?" I pointed to the letter. "Unless you object—yes. It is all I can do I fear," she added speaking to her self more than to me.

The next day was Sunday. For the first time since I had been in the village I went to church with Mrs. Aldrich. I now believed, after a sleepless night, that Keith's letter was in the nature of a warning; that his mention of gossip making his position unbearable; his foolish offers of unimportant things, when he knew my only and repeated stipulation meant that did I not accept his conditions this time, he would end it all by divorcing me.

The word divorce had not been mentioned between us, yet my thoughts of late had dwelt much upon the possibility of it—and upon Mrs. De Lisle.

The clergyman, an elderly man with a kind face, took for his text: "A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another."

And there I sat and listened to the old story of Christ's love for us, and that we should pattern ourselves after Him, and love even those who wronged us.

I thought of Margaret as I listened. I had tried to love her, and failed. Was it my fault? Had she herself not made it impossible by her attitude toward me?

Yet when he pronounced the benediction in his quiet voice, I felt in a way comforted, more at peace.

"Did you like the sermon?" Mrs. Aldrich asked as we walked home.

"Yes, and no! I do not believe it is possible to love everyone. Even to like them. But I am glad I went and shall go again if you care to have me."

"I shall be very glad."

"You see," I went on after a moment. "I may as well commence trying to live as other people do. I shall never go back to Keith. I am sure of that—now. He never will give Margaret up. I mean give up living with her, and I never shall go back to him under those conditions. So I must make my own life, make it as best I can."

"You are wise, my dear, to get out a little and mingle with people. It isn't natural for one as young as you are to shut themselves away from human companionship."

"Is it natural for one as young as I am to be thrown aside? Is it the usual thing for a husband to prefer to please his sister rather than his wife? Is it the usual thing for a man to marry a girl and refuse her a home?"

Mrs. Aldrich looked at me, surprised. I seldom had allowed her to see the bitterness in my heart. I went on:

"I have a friend, a girl of my own age. She has a tiny flat—Jim doesn't make much money, but he gives her a home, he kisses her good-bye in the morning; he calls her pet names. If I could have had for one month the love that Erma has every day I would have been willing to die."

"Dear child. Try to trust Him who loves you. You tried to do your best. He knows that, my dear. He will not let you be unhappy—always."
